BUYER PARTICIPATION

If possible, you will want to attend the sale in person. Auction committee members and ring volunteers will be on hand to assist with your purchase.

Following the sale buyers or their representatives must report to the 4-H Building to fill out the paper work for the animals they purchased.

As these young business persons have bills they need to pay, it is preferred that all livestock purchases be paid for following the sale but arrangements can be made for a bill to be sent.

The following information is needed from buyers or their representative immediately following the sale:

- Name, address and phone number of the buyer
- Payment or billing information
- Destination of the animal
  - Slaughter facility (Terry, Glendive & Miles City)
  - Resale of animal at livestock auction in Miles City or Glendive at next possible sale date
  - Buyer take the animal home

The 4-H Council will deliver the animals to the livestock auction or slaughter facilities in Terry, Glendive or Miles City. Any other arrangements are the responsibility of the buyer.

If you have someone else buy an animal for you, please make sure they have the above information and bring it to the 4-H Building following the sale.

4-H LIVESTOCK PROJECTS

A young person enrolled in a 4-H livestock project makes a long-term commitment for the care and responsibility of an animal. The member must learn principals of livestock nutrition and how to apply them; to train and safely handle the animal; to accept the consequences of one’s work and use the results to formulate future goals.

The animals you will find at the 4-H sale are a product of members striving to reach these goals. You will enjoy the high quality meat produced from their months of learning. Your participation in this sale will be a major motivation for continued growth and education of the 4-H member.
